

The wave of Irish immigrants have led to overcrowding beyond imagination. We have been made to suffer even worse conditions to make room for them.

Irish were willing to work for less pay, this meant employers were more likely to employ Irish as they would keep the extra money for themselves.

The Irish navvies played a vital role in the creation of our canal and rail system. They helped push Scotland to the forefront of trade. Exports increased thanks to them.

We went on strike to campaign for better working conditions and pay. The hateful Irish have swooped in and taken our jobs while we have been striking.

The Irish Catholics have come over and they think they own the place. They are trying to corrupt the minds of our young by building churches and schools teaching the Catholic faith and traditions.

They have lessened wages and take jobs away from deserving Scots, jobs that belonged rightfully to Scots.

I look forward to the Glasgow derby, the introduction of rival football clubs has improved our entertainment. Everyone in Glasgow is hyped up for Saturday.

All Celtic and Rangers football Clubs have done is increase tension, abuse and sectarianism in Scotland. We blame the Irish for this.

Without the work of John Wheatley (Labour MP), an Irish immigrant, the 500,000 affordable houses may not have been built. This greatly helped the poor in Scotland have adequate housing.

Without the diversity of Catholic and Protestants openly campaigning in Scotland, I doubt we as a nation would be as tolerant of different cultures and religions. It really helped us understand there variety of diverse people in Scotland.

The Irish immigrants that came over were a huge help to pushing for reforms on better working conditions and better pay. We were a strong force united against our employers through trade unions.

The economy has been boosted by the Irish pubs that now dot across our high streets. I love going down to watch the bands playing Irish folk songs. It is always a great night with singing and dancing.
